This also includes prescription and over the counter medications, staff members are to insure these do not adversely affect the performance of their official duties. If you are using medication that may affect your work performance, you should notify your manager. ### D. CONFLICT OF INTEREST

The potential for a conflict of interest arises when a staff member has private interests that could influence or appear to influence judgements made during the course of their professional duty. Staff members must ensure that there are no real or apparent conflicts of interest with respect to:

Where staff are working with family members or with persons with whom they develop a close personal relationships or such relationships exist with prospective staff they must be aware that this has the potential to create a conflict of interest if one staff member:

- Is involved in a decision relating to the selection, appointment or promotion of another;
- Is in a supervisory relationship to another and is responsible for employment related decisions e.g. Staff training and development, referee report or annual performance development review.
- Has a personal or family relationship with a student for whom they have direct teaching or assessing responsibility. This will compromise the staff member's obligation to assess all students fairly e.g. Assessment of units, and the awarding of scholarships.

In such cases the staff member must bring the matter to the attention of their Manager in writing and take immediate steps to resolve the conflict if necessary. Please refer to the staff handbook for this procedure.

When conducting research, conflicts of interest may occur when a staff members responsibilities conflict with their private or personal interests which may raise questions of objectivity and/or improper gain. Staff members should advise their Manager immediately. Most conflicts can be successfully resolved without impeding research activity.

Any staff member unsure if a conflict of interest exists should seek advice from a more senior member of staff.

In some cases, only the individual staff member will be aware of the potential for conflict of interest. If so, or if in doubt, the onus is on the staff member to declare any possible conflict to their Manager in writing.

J. RELATIONSHIPS WITH STUDENTS

The main focus of Trainers and Assessors is student learning. Trainers and Assessors demonstrate their commitment to student learning by:

- Knowing their students well, respecting their individual differences and catering for their individual abilities
- Maintaining a safe and challenging learning environment
- Accepting professional responsibility for the provision of quality training
- Having high expectations of every student, recognising and developing each student's abilities, skills and talents
- Considering all viewpoints fairly
- Communicating well and appropriately with their students
- Working to create an environment which promotes mutual respect
- Model and engage in respectful and impartial language
- Protect students from intimidation, embarrassment, humiliation or harm
- Enhance student autonomy and sense of self-worth
- Respect a student's privacy in sensitive matters, such as health or family problems, and only reveal confidential matters when appropriate. That is:
  - If the student has consented to the information being used in a certain way
  - To prevent or lessen a serious threat to life, health, safety or welfare of a person (including the student)
  - As part of an investigation into unlawful activity
  - If the disclosure is required or mandated by law
  - To prevent a crime or enforce the law

In their professional role, Trainers and Assessors do not behave as a friend or a parent. They:

- Interact with students without displaying bias or preference
- Make decisions in students' best interests
- Do not draw students into their personal agendas
- Do not seek recognition at the expense of professional objectivity and goals.

Trainers and Assessors hold a unique position of influence and trust that should not be violated or compromised. They exercise their responsibilities in ways that recognise that there are limits or boundaries to their relationships with students. The following examples outline some of those limits.

A professional relationship will be violated if a Trainer and Assessor:

- Expresses romantic feelings towards a student in written or other form
- Directs flirtatious behaviour towards a student
- Is found to be 'dating' a student
- Has a sexual relationship with a student
- Uses sexual innuendo or inappropriate language and/or material with students
- Touches a student without a valid reason
- Uses disrespectful language, including swearing, either directed at, or in the presence of student
- Holds conversations of a personal nature or has contact with a student via written or electronic means including but not limited to email, letters, telephone, text messages or chat lines, without a valid context
- Accepts gifts, which could be reasonably perceived as being used to influence them, from students or their parents.

A professional relationship may be compromised if a Trainer and Assessor:

- Attends parties or socialises with students
- Invites a student or students back to their home, particularly if no-one else is present.

Staff must not engage in behaviour that raises a reasonable suspicion that they have engaged in, or will engage in, sexual misconduct with a student, or that the standards applying to professional staff/student relations have been or may be breached. Staff interactions with students must be, and be seen to be, professional at all times. For clarification, this includes outside school hours.

Staff must discourage and reject any advances of a sexual nature initiated by a student with whom they have a professional relationship, or where a prohibition on sexual conduct applies and report this in writing to their Manager.

Staff members are not to transport students in their vehicles.
